To a Dispatch man, who called on him in his room, at the Lexington, yesterday, he spoke in glowing terms of Richmond, said be set a deep interest in all that concerned this city, and expressed the wish that Rev. Sam W. Small would carry out his intention, as announced last fall, of instituting a crusade in Richmond next spring. "If he does," said Mr. Jones "he will revolutionize your city government, and he will do away with all rings. He is a worker, is Sam Small, and when he puts his shoulder to the wheel comething is going to drop."

when asked concerning his idea of the powers that should be delegated to the bishops of the Methodist Church, he dictated the following statement:

"I am one of the editors of a southern Methodist paper, published in Nashville, Tenna, called the Tennessee Methodist. The paper is four years old; was organized and run by Methodist preachers in the Tennessee Conference for four years. Six weeks ago I became associate editor of the paper. It has always been loyal to the doctrines and discipline of the Methodist Church, but as to the policy and methods of doing some things we simply chain the right, under the Constitution and laws of the United States and the boasted religious liberty of this country, boasted religious liberty of this country, if we do not like a thing to say so. There white southern Methodists. We think such a constituency needs one independent paper. Independent in the sense that whatever goes on that isn't right we shall call attention to it, give the officials privilege to explain or clean them up. BISHOPS NOT UNIFORM.

"In the first place," the preacher-editor continued, "our bishops are not uniform in their rulings and construction of the law. We think prejudice sometimes has more to do with decisions than has the Golden Rule. We regard that an official is not a boss, but a servant of the people in Church or State. We hold that a Bishop, like all other officials of our Church, should be elected at least every four years, and that as any other official in the continued of the Church, should be elected at least every four years, and that as any other official shirt, said that an old him that he talked lots odishness, he said, was rub on fools, "and," out. We claim that the Church ought not to be run in the interests of its institutions, but that all of the institutions of the Church ought to be run in the interests of the Church. We claim that taxately of whack in the society of whack in the society. tion without representation is unconst tutional in Church or State; that a per tutional in Church or State; that a people who support a church and pastor ought to have some voice and some choice in who their pastor shall be, and not be turned away as a party of well-dressed gentlemen interfering where they have no business. The great body of our preachers are loyal, noble men; many of them are dissatisfied at the way things are going. The laity of the Church are restless, and thousands of them will join in the effort to reform certain abuses and to correct certain methods. Personally I have no grievance. The field to me was never broader or more inviting. My editorial work shall not interrupt or interfere with my evangelistle work. I will at any time surrender my parchments as a Methodist preacher, but my pen, my tongue, and my conscience I shall hold on to for the present."

Teported by Mr. Palmer was one in favor of the widow of General N. P. Banks.

A resolution was offered by Mr. Hisgins (Republican), of Delawars, requiring the President, if not inconsistent with the public interests to furnish copies of all correspondence touching any indication on the part of the United States to bring about negotiations for peace between the empires of Japan and China.

Mr. Morgan objected to its present consideration, and it went over under the rules.

Mr. Call (Democrat) of Florida, rising to a question of personal privilege, sent to the deak and had read an item in the Daily Florida Citizen, bearing on an alleged difficulty with the administration in the matter of a local appointment in Florida. Mr. Call characterized the item as "a malicious falsehood from beginning to end," and a part of the "wicked, malicious system of "alsehood by professional liars to defame genators." He insisted upon the necessity of senators taking cognizance of this growing evil, and of expelling from all privileges connected with the Senate any correspondent who should circulate such false reports.
